The excellent results obtained in Darlington county by the use of clay on sandy roads should encourage the county board to contione the work on this line begun last year on the Stateburg road. The sand bed near Shot Pouch branch was converted into a firstchas hard road by the use of clay over the sand, and it would be a great thing for all who travel the roads leading into this city if the good work could be continued.

Mr. John M. Tindal, who is a candidate for the postmasterehip of this city, has re-moved from his home at Tindals and is now a resident of the City of Sumter. It is the general opinion that Mr. Tindal, who is an old time Republican, has a strong grip on the post office, and his removal to this city is a move to strengthen his candidacy and make his appointment more certain. The term of Capt. P. P. Gaillard, the incumbent, expires next month and the various candidates for the position are all on the anxious bench, waiting in fear and trembling to hear something drop. Each of them has various and sundry reasons to advance in support of their belief and hope that the coveted plum will fall toto his lap. Nobody knows anything with certainty about the appointment, or if they do they are very careful in keeping their knowledge concealed from the public, and no one is prophesying who will knock down

RICHARD P. MONAGHAN DEAD

Spirited Citizen Passes Away.

Dail r Item, Nov. 12. Mr. Richard P. Monaghan died this morning at 3 o'clock, after a brief illness, of congestion of the lungs. Mr. Monaghan was a native of this city and was but forty three years old, but from his early manhood had been prominently identified with the business circles ot Sumter. He was until the first of this yeer, when he met with business reverses, the head of one of the largest general merchandise establishments in the place and had been for many years extensively engaged in the lien business. His boldings of real estate in this city and county were large and valuable, but the financial embarrassment that forced him to suspend husiness, involved his entire property and he died a poor man. No citizen of Sumter bad more true friends than he who lies still in death, and a feeling of sadness pervades the entire community His was a generous and kindly nature, and he gave freely of his means toward every pub-lic enterprise that bore the promise of benefit to the city; toward all objects of charity he was generous with that freehanded liberality, characteristic of those who delight in doing good. Is there not reason for sadness among those who were associated with him and knew him at his real worth? He was at the time of his death a member of the Board of Aldermen and a director of the Bank of Sumter. He had served on the City Council longer than any of his associates, his popularity forcing him to consent to re-election bi-enually for ten or twelve years.

God rest thee, Dick Monaghan, a kinder, more genial soul never lived in Somter : your kindly face and hearty laugh have been sadly missed on the streets for many months, but there was ever present in the hear:s of your friends the hope that you would ere long return to the old familiar places that once knew you so well, but now that bope is forever removed and we know that the final farewells have been said.

Funeral of Richard P. Monaghan

The funeral services over the remains of the late Richard P. Monaghan were held Sunday morning in St. Lawretce Catholic Church The esteem and love in which be was held by all classes in this city was evidenced in some measure by the very large assemblage at the church, which could not seat a half of those present. The services of the church were read by Rev Father A. J. McNeill and the body was taken to the cemetery and interred.

The pall bearers were: Hon. Altawout Moses, Maj M. Moise, Dr. J. A. Mood, Capt. Jno. Reid, Capt. B. G. Pierson, Messrs Geo. F. Epperson, R J. Dunne and C. E.

The Mayor and Aldermen, city officials, members of the police force and the members of the fire department attended and marched in the funeral procession from the house to the church and thence to the cemetery.

THE MAYOR'S COURT

Barton Levan Up For Cowhiding a Chinaman.

The Mayor's Court was more interesting than usual Monday morning and the audience was consequently much larger than it has been at recent sessions The prisoners at the har were Barton Levan and Wong Sing, the latter a Chinese laundryman, who recently arrived in the city and purchased the laundry run for some time by Hong Gong. The charges against them were disorderty conduct, fighting on the streets and disturbing the peace. When arraigned Levan plead guilty and the Chinaman said he did not understand what the Clerk meant A Popular Man and a Public by guilty or not guilty. Clerk Hurst proceeded to explain the matter to him, concluding by asking if he, Wong Sing had been fighting on the street last night. The Celestial replied promptly, 'No! No! No! souebody beat me.

Levan testified, when put on the stand, that he had been to Columnia and had just returned and was on the way to his home, when he heard the report of a gun near his house. Running to his gate he met his father and several other men and was informed that a Chinaman had attempted to break into his house, but had been prevented by his father, Joe Levan, who lives next door. Joe was alarmed by the screaming of Barton Levan's wife and her sister, who were the only persons at home, and ran out with his gun to capture the man whom he saw on the piazza The Chinaman attempted to escape over the fence. but was halted by a threat that he would be shot: The Chinaman then approached Joe and grappled with him, finally escaping through the gate. Joe then fired at him, but missed the Chinaman, who was running at top speed. Barton came up town as soon as he was informed of the matter and met the Chineman on Liberty Street. He wanted to take the Chinaman back to his home for identification, but he refused to go. Barton then let in on him with a whip, giving him a severe thrashing before he and Wong Sing were arrested by Policeman Seymour. The statements of Barton Levan were corroborated by Joe Levan and other witnesses. Mayor Bossard imposed the nominal fine of $1 on Barton for violating the ordinance against fighting on the streets. Wong Sing was held for trial to-morrow on the charge of disturbing the peace and attempting to break into a house. The trial was postponed on account of the absence of several important

The Mayor Makes Allowances on Account of Wong Sing's Ignorance of English.

Wong Sing, who received a cowhiding Sunday night for trying to enter Parton Levan's house was tried in the ayor's Court Tuesday worning, found guilty of treepass and disturbing the peace and fined $5,

He has been confined in the Guard House since his arrest on Sunday night, and this imprisonment and the fine imposed was deemed sufficient punishment by the Mayor, who stated that he was disposed to deal lenreatly with the calprit on account of his ignorance of the English language and the customs of the country.

Wong Sing paid his fine promptly and price to pay for going where he was not in-
